

“Will the culture of privacy change in 2015?”

Join us with presenter Mandy Woodland for the top privacy topics & things to watch for in 2015 - a year to expect in Canadian and global privacy developments.

Mandy is a commercial lawyer with a focus on privacy and technology, and owner of Mandy Woodland Law in St. John's, NL - a virtual law firm providing flat rate services and part-time in-house counsel services both on- and off-site for clients. She acts as a business partner, providing legal services and advice to companies and individuals at all stages from startup through growth and exit. Mandy is past-Chair of the national Canadian Bar Association Privacy & Access Law Section, provincial CBA section chair in NL, and is currently Chair of the Newfoundland and Labrador Association of Technology Industries. She is a member of IT.CAN and ITechLaw, and speaks regularly on the intersections of law, technology and privacy.

Date: Thursday, 26th February 2015

Time: 12:00 – 2:00 pm

Place: Nalcor Bldg.

500 Columbus Drive, St. John's

Free for Members

$15 for Non-Members

RSVP to secretary@armaterranova.org by Tuesday, 24 Feb. 2015.

Please note any dietary restrictions